How will CoreConnect™ Help My Business?

The Global Internet Economy is about meeting the right people, but doing it in a smart way. IntellaCore's CoreConnect leverages internet technology and our global networks to help you meet and build strategic relationships.

IntellaCore's business strategy for our clients is to build a powerful and effective network of contacts and relationships around the client's company -- so that the company's value and capability is based not only on what it does/makes, but on the capabilities that it can access in its network, integrate into their core competency, and then deliver to its customer as an added-value engagement.

Gain Access To The Right People

Even with new technological developments, relationships are still built by people with people.

IntellaCore's CoreConnect qualifying process allows important networks to be at your hands.
